Fast legs — Adam had 'em

By Paul Marks
Telegraph-News Bureau

Monday was homecoming for Macon runner Adam Pinkston.

The tall, lanky Central High graduate has been running in races all over the state this summer, but Monday was a chance to run the road in Macon's largest 10,000-meter race, the Macon Labor Day Race.

Pinkston was recognized as the top area 10,000-meter runner before Monday race, but his third place finish of 31:18 was just 27 seconds behind winner Tony Bateman. That surprised even Pinkston.

Pinkston wanted to use the home crowd excitement of the Labor Day race to achieve three goals. He wanted to run close to the leaders, establish a new personal best time at 10,000 meters and break 31 minutes. Pinkston realized two of his three goals, the new p.b. and a top three finish. He probably would have broken 31 minutes if the high heat and humidity had not held down performances.

Four people were treated and released from the emergency room of the Medical Center of Central Georgia for heat exhaustion.

Those treated for heat-related injuries were P.Q. Cotton, Brenda Lane, James Benner and Philip Kearney.

THE HEAT HELD Pinkston back from a superior time, but it could not prevent a superior finish.

Pinkston said his seventh Labor Day race — he has run all of the races in its history — was by far his most rewarding.

"I wanted a p.r.," Pinkston said. "I just wanted a better time."

Pinkston got a new personal best by four seconds with the Labor Day race. He previously had run a 31:22 at Americus in the Spring Run.

Pinkston led the race early until more experienced runners with much lower established times stepped in to take the lead.

"Rick Miller (of Tallahassee) was the front-runner at the base of the hill," Pinkston said. "I took over the lead at one mile until I slowed down and asked Lasseter (Don Lasseter of Atlanta) to take over at about three miles."

PINKSTON COULDN'T handle the hard charge of Bateman or second place finisher Mike Mead of Carrollton, but he came back to pass Lasseter and beat him by for seconds at the finish.

The third place finish by Pinkston in the race run at his hometown was unexpected because he was not even seeded in the top ten before the race.

His best previous showing at Labor Day was an eighth-place finish of 31:33 in the 1982 race.

The team divisions of the race were wrapped up by the Atlanta teams. The men's division, the women's team and the masters team championships were all claimed by Atlanta Track Club members.

Tony Bateman of Auburn, Ala. strolled over to Macon to meet his girlfriend and wound up winning the 10,000-meters 1983 Macon Labor Day Road Race Monday in a time of 30:51.8.

Mike Mead of Carrollton was second in 31:09, and third place was taken by Adam Pinkston of Macon who set a personal best time in the race of 31:18.

Barbara Balzer, a lawyer from Tallahassee, won the women's division with a time of 38:13.

A record turnout of 1305 runners competed in Monday's race which was held under warm, very humid conditions. There were four runners who had to be taken to hospitals for heat-related injuries.

Bateman, a former track coach at Vanderbilt University, came to Macon with the original intention of watching his girlfriend, Edie Brantley of Dublin, run the labor Day Race. Brantley surprised Bateman Friday with the news he would be running in the race.

Tony Bateman

"She met me at the bus station with a hug and a race packet," the 27-year-old Bateman said.

BATEMAN RAN track at North Carolina State University, and he listed a previous best 10,000-meter time of 28:40 at the Dogwood Relays in Knoxville, Tenn. Bateman said after he left Vanderbilt in June, he decided to devote more time to training for a shot at making the United State Olympic team at 10,000-meters.

Bateman's entry into the race Saturday made him the top seed for Monday's race. Since he was the only sub 29-minute runner in the field. Bateman was the class of the field which had no other runners with previous times below 30 minutes.

Bateman treated the race as a training exercise.

"I just wanted a good, hard effort," he said. "I really didn't want to kid myself into thinking I could race."

Bateman was out of the picture early, but by the midway point of the race he had everything locked up.

WHEN THE runners broke from the starting line on Vineville Ave. near Wesleyan, Bateman laid back behind a pack which included Mead, Macon's Pinkston, Dan Lasseter of Atlanta, Wes Wesseley of Atlanta and Rick Miller of Tallahassee, Fla.

Pinkston led the charge up the initial hill near Rivoli Dr. at the one-mile mark. At the crest of the hill, Pinkston gave the first-place position to Lasseter, who held it until about halfway through the race.

At about the 3 and ½-mile mark of the 6.2-mile race, Bateman eased into the lead near Clisby School. Mead said he made a bid for the race at about 4 and ½ miles, but he had to fall off.

"I tried to take him (Bateman), but I developed a stitch at the bottom of the last hill around 4 and ½ miles, and I dropped off the pace just slightly.

Bateman was never seriously challenged after that, winning the race by almost 20 seconds.

"I really didn't figure in until about three miles," Bateman said. "I came to the first mile-mark in 5:08, and basically all I did was run five-minute miles the rest of the way."

THE OPPRESSIVE heat and humidity held down the times of all the runners. Bateman's winning time was well off the course record of 29:46.3 set last year by Kevin Moats of Kennesaw with temperatures in the low 60s and low humidity.

Balzer, a University of Iowa graduate who competed in the first triathlon held on the continental United States at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, had come to visit her parents in Centerville outside of Warner Robins and decided to enter the race.

She was uncertain of her win until the final ½-mile of the race.

"I was behind at five and one-half miles (to Macon's McBrayer)," said Balzer. She began to die, and people told me to dig, dig, dig and I gave it all I had the last part of the race."

Balzer's time was well behind the women's record of 34:43 set by Shirley Silsby in 1980.

The wheelchair race was won by Jimmy Green in 30:05. Phillip Mann of Macon was second in 36:39.
